New single, Bed of Thorns, tells the story of heartbreak

A new single by Waldo Greeff, Bed of Thorns, deals with the heartbreak of a relationship that didn't work - but totally unexpected to one party. This single was produced in Los Angeles by Trey Vittetoe who has also produced music for Selena Gomez and Miley Cyrus.

"This single deals with a relationship that ended abruptly for the narrator after he thought it was going well but then it ended unexpectedly," Waldo said.

This is Waldo's first single in two years as he is also currently working in Qatar as a music teacher.

Waldo is currently in South Africa as he was visiting when Qatar went on lockdown due to COVID-19. With South Africa also in lockdown until Thursday, 16 April, Waldo decided to work on the song and release it from here.

"I chose to release this song as a single because it has a very commercial pop vibe that a lot of people should be able to relate to," Waldo said.

"Love and heartbreak is a universal theme and we all understand this language," he added.

This song boasts with a catchy chorus that listeners will remember, and the words will evoke an emotion everyone can relate to.

Waldo is well-known in the South African music industry and wrote music for some of the countries' top recording artists such as Steve Hofmeyr, Kurt Darren, Andriette, Izak Davel, Mwah!, Lee Scott and the Grammy-winning Soweto Gospel Choir.

"I am in the process of aligning all my projects with my life commitments so that I can move to Nashville permanently and establish myself as a songwriter in the US," Waldo said.

Waldo has a few highlights in his career - winning two Huisgenoot Tempo Awards, having his song Ons Huis Is Hier being chosen to be feature in the latest edition of the FAK Sangbundel and working with the international songwriter Roger Brown (who has written music for Celine Dion and Barbara Streisand) who gives him feedback on his music.

The music video for Bed of Thorns was released by JacarandaFM on Monday at 10:00 and is now available on YouTube. It was filmed in Cape Town by local producer Hugo Brand.

Waldo's song Breathe for You has reached #1 on various local hit parades and the single Speechless was a finalist in the John Lennon International Songwriting Competition.

Bed of Thorns is available on all major digital outlets. Follow Waldo Greeff on all social media platforms.
